GENERAL NEWS.

Scoville Resigns as Chief Counsel for Guiteau.

HAZAEL WINS THE WALKING MATCH AT NEW YORK.

Celebration of Robert Emmet's Birthday at New York, Chicago and other Cities.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—A mass meeting of Irish citizens of Brooklyn to-night celebrated the anniversary of the birthday of Robert Emmet. Congressman Wm. E. Robinson presided and made an address on Ireland's condition, followed by Senator Jones of Florida. Letters of regret were received from Congressman Cox, ex-Senator Conkling, Gen. Hancock, Henry Ward Beecher, Senator Bayard, Horatio Seymour, Mrs. Parnell and B. F. Butler. Emmett's birthday was also celebrated in this city by a gathering in Cooper's Institute. There were appropriate addresses delivered by Senator Jones of Nevada and Wm. J. Hines of Chicago.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Speaker Keifer presided at a meeting held to-night in commemoration of the anniversary of the birth of Robert Emmet. Among the speakers who addressed the meeting were Hon. Nicholas Ford of Missouri, Hazeltine of Missouri, Cox of New York, Hardenburg of New Jersey, Butterworth of Ohio and Col. M. D. Ball of Alaska. The speeches were not confined to a consideration of Emmet's character and services alone, but several speakers were outspoken in the denunciation of English rule in Ireland.

CHICAGO, March 4.—The 102d anniversary of the birthday of Robert Emmet was appropriately celebrated at Central Music Hall this evening. Speeches were made by Petroleum V. Nasby and others.

Something Funny from the Herald.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The Herald editorially says: Leading celestial residents of San Francisco have sought the golden mean so dear to the disciple of Confucius, by suggesting by cable that as there is great excitement on the Pacific coast over the rapid influx of Chinamen, shippers at Hong Kong should prevent trouble by arresting the rush. There was a time when they raised an immense wall to keep the barbarian out, but now the Chinese commercial policy would seem to demand a wall to keep the natives in.

The "Tribune" on the Chinese Question.

Tribune's editorial: Once more the Chinaman is given to understand with entire directness and the qualities of emphasis that his room upon the Pacific coast is incomparably better than his company. California, Oregon and Nevada are earnestly protesting against a continuation of immigration from the land of flowers to these states. An immense Chinese meeting was held in San Francisco yesterday, and the movement has assumed such proportions and power that leading Chinese merchants on the coast have joined in a dispatch to one of the great commercial bodies of Hongkong counseling a pause in immigration. It remains to be seen whether the Mongolians will accept this advice with a smile that is childlike and bland and then will take ship for the United States the same as before, or will be induced to remain in China and grow up with the country. Unless congress passes some such bill as the one now pending, we doubt if any considerable check can be put upon John's movements.

Death of Milton S. Latham.

The Sunday Times has the following details: Ex-Senator Milton S. Latham, president of the New York mining and stock exchange, died yesterday after brief illness at Sherwood house, in 5th avenue. He was born in Columbus. His death yesterday was a surprise to his friends, who had not been looking forward to a fatal termination to what was considered but trifling indisposition. His wife and one son survive him. The funeral will take place to-morrow p. m., from his late residence, the Sherwood House.

In Aid of Refugees.

Jewish citizens of Brooklyn met to-day and entered a protest against persecution of Israelites in Europe, and appointed a committee to solicit subscriptions in aid of refugees arriving here. A liberal sum was contributed at the meeting.

Work Stopped.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The high prices paid for material and the outrageous demands of workmen have caused the stoppage of work on the Grand Opera House, corner of Broadway and Thirty-second street. The estimates fall short $300,000, the deficit in iron alone being $100,000. Vanderbilt and others projected the enterprise, but will not pay $4 50 to stone-cutters for nine hours' work.

Indicted for Stealing Plays.

CHICAGO, March 4.—The grand jury to-day found indictments against six persons who are variously charged with being professional gamblers, keeping gambling houses and letting property for such purposes. A number of prominent property-owners are implicated in the last named offense. Alex. Byers and Edward Corby, play thieves, were examined to-day and bound over in the sum of $10,000 each, charged with conspiracy to injure another man's business by selling copies of the copyrighted play of "Hazel Kirke." This is the first instance where such a charge has been brought for larceny. The property stolen not being tangible, other suits have always failed. It is reported these offenders have copies of seventy-five plays.

Scoville Resigns as Guiteau's Counsel.

CHICAGO, March 5.—George Scoville will arrive Monday morning, having severed connection with the Guiteau case. This is the result not only of unpleasantness almost amounting to a quarrel, but the opinion held by prisoner's relations that Scoville's abilities are not of the best order. John W. Guiteau returned to Boston this evening and there announced discovery of important evidence in regard to insanity, and that the new board of counsel will move a new trial. It is rumored that Ben Butler has consented to undertake the case.

Damaged by Water.

TOLEDO, March 4.—At 10 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the Chamber of Commerce building, occupied by the Western Union Telegraph company, Second National and Commercial National Banks, law and insurance offices, etc. The fire originated in the mansard roof from a defective flue. The damage will probably be $20,000, which is covered by insurance. The premises mentioned sustained no damage from fire, but were flooded with water and abandoned for a short time. The offices of the telegraph company were occupied at noon, and by to-night order will be entirely restored and business moving as usual.

A Meeting of Protest.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—The academy of music was crowded this evening with citizens assembled to protest against the oppression of Jews by Russia and take measures for their relief. On the stage were Gov. Hoyt, ex-Minister John Welch, and other prominent persons. Resolutions were adopted asking the president to present the protest to the government at St. Petersburg against the treatment of Jews, and calling upon congressmen to strengthen the hands of the executive in making a protest.

A Train Robber's Scheme.

KANSAS CITY, March 5.—It has been discovered that George Sheppard, who claimed to have shot Jesse James, is really James' friend, and made the claim merely to get the reward and divide it with Jesse. He was apparently leagued with the police trying to find James, and shot himself through the leg to create the belief that he had fought with James. Taxed with his perfidy, he confessed that Jesse was still alive.

Egan Wants to be Investigated.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Patrick Eagan, treasurer of the national land league funds, has sent a letter from Paris to Judge Birdsall, of this city, member of the committee, suggesting that in view of the slanders of enemies concerning the expenditure of funds, an auditing committee be appointed to examine every detail of outlay. The reserve fund is now $327,000, properly secured.

Drowned.

FORT MADISON, Iowa, March 4.—Three men, Peter Hunt, claiming to be from Milwaukee, and Shaw and McCarty, of Burlington, striking moulders, came to this city this morning, and in the evening, all being under the influence of liquor, stole a skiff and attempted to cross to an island, but the two last named were drowned.

Arrested for Fraud.

KEOKUK, March 4.—W. N. Sturgess, of Chicago, a prominent grain operator, was arrested here to-night on a charge of defrauding Francis L. Kennett & Co., of Chicago, out of $50,000 worth of grain that was stored in the Keokuk grain elevator when Sturgess was its proprietor. He was indicted by the grand jury to-day.

Hazael Wins the Match.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Hazael, 598¾; Sullivan, 529; Noremac, 515; Hughes, 535; Fitzgerald, 571; Hart, [illegible]. At 9:11 Hazael completed the six hundredth mile, and the champion and Fitzgerald were stopped in front of the scorer's stand, where Hazael received the jeweled whip.

Killed Herself.

CLEVELAND, March 4.—Alice Wright, 19 years old, a soubrette of Harrison's "Photos" theatrical troupe, jumped from the fourth story window of the Stillinger House to-day and was instantly killed. It is believed she was demented on account of an attack of typhoid fever last fall.

An Anti-Prohibition Campaign.

CHICAGO, March 5.—Tribune's Topeka: Prohibition leaders claim that a secret meeting of distillers, brewers, etc., in New York was held last week to plan a Kansas campaign against prohibition at this fall election. The idea is not to break down prohibition here, but chiefly to produce its effect on other states.

Resolutions of Indignation.

LOUISVILLE, March 4.—The American ticket brokers' association met to-day and passed resolutions declaring their business honorable and legitimate, and courting investigation, and also declaring that henceforth they will no longer submit to the oppression and indignities of so-called popular lines.

Election Frauds.

PHILADELPHIA, March 5.—The committee of one hundred have discovered frauds in the November election in the twenty-sixth ward. Warrants are issued for the arrest of the judge and inspectors, but they have fled. The committee offer a reward of $500 for their apprehension.

THE RAGING WATERS.

Notes from the Inundated Districts in Arkansas and Mississippi.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

LITTLE ROCK, March 4.—The Gazette's Arkansas City special, via Tripp's station, says: The water has fallen to all 15 inches, caused by weakening of levees in Mississippi opposite and above Riverton. All of Bolivar county, Mississippi, is under water, and Beat [illegible] of Washington county, including Greenville. Families are huddled together in such houses as they think safest. Government aid is expected, and will reach us in good time. Many a heart is made happy by the approach of bread and meat for hungry ones who would otherwise starve. In this city the water has receded from many houses, which are being washed out to-day, ready to receive inhabitants from the garrets. No more loss of life has occurred, and the people feel more cheerful, as there are some signs of relief and returning business.

A Sorrowful State.

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—Capt. Sinnott, engaged in the Red river trade, has just returned from a trip and says he found great distress everywhere, and no telling what damage may yet result. People are undergoing terrible hardships, many of them emigrants, who settled on the productive lowlands along the river, improved the country considerably, and were building it up. Some of them had only made one or two crops, and were just beginning to get their plantations in full running order when the water came and swept their crops, and everything else, away. Those who could do so, ran their stock up in the hills, but most of them are ruined entirely and on the verge of starvation.

River Rising at Helena.

HELENA, Ark., March 4.—The river has risen over four inches the past twenty-four hours, which brings it up to within five inches of the late rise. It is thought by Monday the water will be above the highest point of the season, and the rise is expected to continue until about the 12th instant. Citizens will make a hard fight to save the front levees.

More Rations Wanted.

Governor Crittenden, of Missouri, telegraphs the secretary of war to increase the rations already ordered for sufferers by floods. The misery is worse than represented.

The secretary of war to-day telegraphed Senator Vest, of Missouri, in reply to a telegram received by the department of war from Governor Crittenden for more rations, as follows: Eight days' supply for the number stated by him (Governor Crittenden) in Mississippi and Pemiscott counties had already been sent. In view of the enormous demands from lower down the river it does not seem advisable to increase supplies to this point at present. For example, Arkansas commissioners ask 15,000 rations for forty days, which alone would cost about $20,000 more than the total amount appropriated by congress for all sufferers.

Secretary Lincoln has been busy to-day in perfecting plans for distribution of subsistence stores authorized by congress to be issued to those made destitute by floods in the Mississippi valley. From data furnished he thinks four times the sum granted could be expended without meeting the actual immediate wants of the people. Eight officers will be detailed to investigate the wants of the people on the spot, and Gen. Sheridan has ordered a detail of four or more of these from his division to proceed at once to the flooded districts. In view of widespread distress it is intended by the delegation from states affected to ask congress for an additional appropriation for relief, and also furnish the poor with seed corn for the coming spring planting. It is represented that all corn reserved for that purpose has been destroyed, and unless it can be promptly replaced the suffering of the present will be turned into absolute famine during the year. Advocates of improvement of the Mississippi river are urging the present condition of the valley as strong argument in favor of a liberal appropriation to build national levees and straighten the course of rivers.

Congressional Aid Asked.

The war department continues to receive dispatches from points in the southwest regarding damages by floods. Secretary Lincoln this afternoon says the losses and consequent suffering exceed any estimate yet made. There are urgent calls for greater measures of relief than can be afforded within the limits of the appropriation, and the demands of course cannot be fully met without consent of congress. Senators and members of the house from the afflicted states are in receipt of urgent telegrams calling for appropriations commensurate with the disaster. From Little Rock alone there are reports of 12,000 persons made absolutely destitute, and to feed these even until the flood recedes will require double the sum set aside for that state from the appropriation by congress. Senator Garland says municipalities and corporations of the state are responding liberally, but they are burdened with refugees from flooded districts. He also says the present distress is only beginning. Levees are broken in so many places that impoverished communities have been unable to repair them in time to prevent overflow. When the June rise comes it is also feared that under the best circumstances the ground will be in such condition as to delay planting until too late for good crops. At an informal meeting of members of congress from states afflicted it was resolved to ask for an additional appropriation of $400,000. A resolution will probably be introduced in the house to that effect to-morrow. A proposition was also made to ask for an appropriation to repair levees at once. To do this promptly and effectively so as to be of service to the people this year would require not less than a million dollars. Consideration of this proposition was deferred until a formal meeting of members of river states can be called, probably to-morrow.

Appropriation too Small.

Much disappointment is felt by the department at the refusal of the house to appropriate the sum recommended by the secretary of state to defray the expenses of distributing the monthly consulars' reports. The consular and diplomatic bill, as passed by the house yesterday, appropriated for the purpose only $175,000, about one-third the amount requested, although three secretaries of state—Evarts, Blaine and Frelinghuysen—have successively called the attention of congress to the importance of making adequate provision.

New Breaks in the Levees.

NEW ORLEANS, March 5.—Two crevasses are reported in bayou Lafourche's levees, out near Lafourche crossing, and the other near Thibadeaux. The latter is a very serious break, it is believed on the west bank, and is now six feet deep, and the water is said to be three feet deep on the public road, in the vicinity. Unless the breaks can be speedily closed, great damage will be done.

Ice Jam at Bangor.

BANGOR, Maine, March 5.—Owing to a thaw, ice formed in a jam in Veasie, four miles above the city, and the water is higher than since the great flood of 1847. The St. Croix and Penobscot railroad machine shop was dislodged by rising water and fell into the river, carrying away one pier of the railroad bridge.

A FEARLESS ENGINEER.

An Act of Cool, Deliberate, Self-Sacrificing Heroism.

Richmond (Va.) Whig.

The highest order of human courage is that which impels a man in his cool and reflective moments to confront approaching danger or death, that it may be averted from others. An act of such cool, deliberate, self-sacrificing heroism, in which R. P. Irving, a young engineer on the Ohio and Chesapeake railroad, was the actor, deserves the record. On Wednesday of last week eleven trains were blocked at Waynesboro, awaiting the arrival and passage of extras which were behind time.

Those having finally come up and passed on their way westward, the eastward-bound freights were at liberty to resume their way. The first of the eleven started up the heavy grade toward the tunnel, but, owing to the sleety condition of the track, could make no headway. Mr. Irving, the engineer of the train next behind, uncoupled his engine and came to the assistance of the other. Their united forces got the heavily-laden train under way, and Mr. Irving, after helping it over the heaviest grade, uncoupled his engine and backed down the grade to his own train. He was scarcely in position again when the familiar rattling sound of an approaching train struck his ears. He looked up and for a moment stood horror stricken as he saw a section of the train he had helped up the grade coming slowly back now, but gathering speed as it moved. He realized the situation in an instant. Thirteen heavy-laden cars had by some accident become uncoupled from the rest of the train and were now returning down a 75-foot grade, threatening a collision with the standing trains that must have entailed an immense destruction of property, besides the mangling of human victims.

The young engineer did not hesitate a moment. He saw there was but one thing to do, and he did it, though he knew that his own life must in all likelihood be the sacrifice. The approaching section had already gathered considerable headway when he put his engine in motion to meet it and break the force of the collision. Whatever might be his own fate, the lives and property behind him would be spared. It was a terrible spectacle—the heavy cars with their thousands of tons burden thundering down the grade and threatening to annihilate whatever opposed their path—the single engine, under a full head of steam, fairly leaping up the grade as if anxious for the encounter. The young engineer was seen by several as he passed, flying into the jaws of death. He stood with his hand upon the lever, pale resolute, slightly stooping as he watched the descending mass that at the next moment threatened to overwhelm him and his engine and consign him to a frightful death.

The shock came. The intrepid engineer had somewhat lightened it by reversing his lever at the last moment. The crash was awful. The foremost car fairly mounted the opposing engine, dashing itself to pieces. A scene of wreck and ruin ensued. We have no particulars of the extent of the damage or the loss to the company; nor are we much concerned about that. What does concern us is the fact that the brave engineer lay in the midst of the wreck, bruised and stunned, but, beyond that, unhurt. Behind him stood the long train of cars which he had saved from wreck, and around his prostrate form stood those whose lives he had saved by an act which has few parallels for boldness, promptitude and deliberate self-sacrifice.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Conkling's Acceptance of his New Position Uncertain.

GENERAL FREMONT CLAIMS OWNERSHIP OF ALCATRAZ ISLAND.

The Democratic Campaign Committee Partially Selected—Additional Star Route Indictments Found.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Roscoe Conkling has not yet chosen to state whether or not he will accept the highest honor a lawyer can receive in this country. A dispatch from New York says: "Mr. Conkling has not yet received official notification of his appointment and confirmation as associate justice of the supreme court, and therefore declines to talk. His most intimate friends advise against acceptance, but others trust he will not decline as they believe this the only solution of troubles in the republican party of this state." A senator who would be likely to know said the president at 4 o'clock had received no communication from Conkling. David Davis had information at a late hour this evening that Conkling would not accept, and if any one in Washington knows, probably David Davis is the man.

Kennedy's Plea for the Chinese.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—J. C. G. Kennedy, of this city, who is generally understood to be a regularly employed attorney for the Chinese Six Companies of California, has issued a pamphlet entitled, "The Chinaman as a laborer," which bears his name, and is addressed in the form of a letter to Senator Dawes. In it he endeavors to show that the census total of Chinese residents in California in 1880 is less than the total number that would have been found in 1876, 1877 or 1878 had a census been taken in either of these years. He also cites extracts from the testimony given before the congressional commission of 1876 by W. W. Hollister, Judge Solomon Heydenfelt, Donald McLellan, Rev. William Brier, George D. Roberts, Heynemann and other Californians in favor of Chinese immigration, but does not print those portions of their testimony which throw light upon its apparently self-interested inspiration. This important omission is exposed and an explanation supplied by the Sunday Gazette of to-day, which points out that Kennedy's garbled citations are from witnesses who have grown rich employing Chinese labor; who are notorious in California for antagonism to independent and ambitious labor, or whose special relations with the Chinese in business or law or missionary interests make them naturally Chinese advocates and champions of mongolian immigration. The Gazette then editorially proceeds to state what the overwhelming bulk of testimony taken by the congressional commission really did establish, and closes its article with a brief but emphatic allusion to the troubles which have resulted from the presence of Africans and Indians as skeletons at our national board, and warning against inviting another race conflict for no other reason than that of cheap labor and deteriorating our civilization. The press descriptions of anti-Chinese demonstrations on the Pacific coast yesterday have been read with much interest and gratification by friends of the restrictive bill, and will undoubtedly add some votes to the already assured majorities in both houses of congress in favor of desired legislative action to carry the treaty into effect. Pacific coast senators continue to be entirely confident that the senate will reach final vote and pass the pending Chinese bill to-morrow afternoon.

The Democratic Campaign Committee.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—The democratic congressional campaign committee, to consist of one member from each state and territory, to be selected by their respective delegations in congress, has been partially formed by the selection of the following representatives: Herndon of Alabama, Jones of Arkansas, Rosecrans of California, Phelps of Connecticut, Martin of Delaware, Clements of Georgia, Townshend of Illinois, Cobb of Indiana, Philo Thompson of Kentucky, King of Louisiana, McLane of Maryland, Morse of Massachusetts, Singleton of Mississippi, Clark of Missouri, Flower of New York, Cox of New York, Randall of Pennsylvania, Evans of South Carolina, Whitthorne of Tennessee, Wellborne of Texas, Barbour of Virginia, Ouray of Arizona, Ainslie of Idaho, McGinnis of Montana, Post of Wyoming. As the full committee will consist of forty-six members, eighteen remain to be selected. After each state and territory has been heard from General Rosecrans, chairman of the democratic caucus, will call the committee together for the purpose of selecting an executive committee and chairman.

Bland's Views on Coinage.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Representative Bland, member of committee on coinage, weights and measures, made argument before that committee to-day in favor of establishment of a mint at St. Louis or some other eligible point in the Mississippi valley. In course of his remarks Bland urged the importance of popularizing silver coins as a means of encouraging habits of economy and saving among people, which he considered far better than continuance of the present system, which results in locking up in the vaults of the treasury a large proportion of standard silver dollars, and thereby practically demonetizing silver. Burchard, director of the mint, also made a statement favoring the establishment of a mint at some point on the Mississippi river.

Gen. Fremont makes a Modest Claim.

Johnson, of Virginia, filed in the senate yesterday the petition of Gen. John C. Fremont, in which he claims to be owner in fee simple of Alcatraz island, and asks that his claim be referred to the court of claims for adjudication. Fremont sets forth that while he was military governor of the territory of California in 1847, he purchased for the United States the said island, commonly called Bird's island, lying at the inner end of the straits, which makes an entrance from the Pacific ocean into the bay of San Francisco, and to which he (Fremont) gave the name of Golden Gate; that the U. S. government refused to accept, repudiated the purchase, and made the subject a charge of mutiny in proceedings by court-martial in 1848, where the fact of the purchase of the island was declared to be an assumption of power on the part of Fremont and an act of mutiny against the government. In 1856 Fremont paid the bond given for purchase and became owner of said island. He says the U. S. government afterwards, finding that the island is the key to the harbor of San Francisco, and indispensably necessary as a point for establishing a lighthouse and fort, did, without his consent or knowledge take possession, and still holds the said island as the property of the government.

Claims to be Transferred.

Representatives of several house committees have been in consultation for some time upon bills introduced looking to the transfer of all claims upon the treasury now before congress to the court of claims. They decided to recommend substantially the bill of Representative House of Tennessee. The calendar is so loaded with all sorts of relief bills and claims it is practically impossible to consider any of them promptly. The design is not to confer upon the court power to decide and award, but simply judicially investigate and report the testimony in each case with an opinion of its rights, for the guidance of congress when it comes to consider an appropriation to pay claims, for only such as have merit are likely to be submitted.

Indictments Presented.

The grand jury came into the criminal court to-day and presented indictments for conspiracy in connection with star route mail service against the following: Thomas J. Brady, S. W. Dorsey, Henry M. Vail, John W. Dorsey, John R. Miner, John M. Peck, Mc. R. Odell, J. L. Sanderson, Wm. H. Turner, and also against Alvan O. Buck, Wm. S. Barringer and Albert E. Boone, and against Kate M. Armstrong for perjury. The indictments against Brady, Dorsey and others are voluminous, and based on charges heretofore stated in prosecution of the cases in various stages.

Contracts Awarded.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The contract division of the postoffice department to-day sent out nearly 2000 notifications to successful star-route contractors, informing them of the official acceptance of their proposals for service. The aggregate sum of their bids is about $4,000,000. A. E. Boone, one of the contractors now under indictment for conspiracy by the grand jury, has secured a large number of these awards, although if found guilty of this offence the department may begin proceedings to cancel these and similar contracts.

Northwest Postal Changes.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The following are the week's postal changes: Established—Fultonville, Wasco county, Oregon, James Fulton, postmaster; Howard, Wasco county, Or., Mary C. Allen, postmistress. Discontinued—Cypress, Whatcom county, W. T. Postmasters appointed—Chas. Evans, New Tacoma, Pierce county, W. T.; Melica L. Taylor, Pekin, Cowlitz county, W. T.

Action of Committees.

The senate committee on commerce has instructed Vest to report Eads' inter-oceanic ship railway bill to the senate with recommendation for passage with sundry amendments.

No News from Conkling.

Late to-night the president, being asked if he would tell what he had heard from ex-Senator Conkling in regard to his nomination as associate justice, replied, "There is nothing to tell."

News from an Overdue Ship.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The steamer Ville D'Isigny arrived to-day from Bordeaux and reports that Feb. 28 she fell in with the overdue steamer City of Berlin from Liverpool for New York, with machinery broken, and took her in tow and towed her for eight hours, when the steamer Somalia came up and took the Berlin in tow for Halifax.

The City of Berlin has 25 cabin passengers and nearly 400 in the steerage. Among the former is Jacob Schaeffer, the billiard player. The Somalia arrived off Boston light this evening with the City of Berlin in tow. She will arrive up late to-night.

Meeting of Telegraphers.

The Telegraphers' association elected P. J. Thrall president, J. B. Tallval vice president, and Chas. M. Jansen secretary. Owing to circumstances two conventions have been called for the purpose of "better uniting" the fraternity. One will be held at Pittsburg and the other at Cincinnati. New York declines an invitation to either convention.

LONDON LETTER.

Comment on the Recent Attempt on the Queen's Life—Bradlaugh's Re-election and the Cession of Thessaly.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—[illegible] the queen's life as the act of the [illegible] Maclean [illegible] to kill the queen. Nobody [illegible] that [illegible] and there has [illegible] that he had an accomplice, or [illegible]. The Irish papers everywhere [illegible] all sympathy with [illegible] attacks on the queen. Unusual precautions were taken in London a fortnight ago to insure the queen's safety. They were eventually relaxed when she quitted London, the police at Windsor showing rather unusual negligence. Some of the spectators urge that Maclean could easily have shot the queen in the station, to which the access was unguarded, but it is certain that the bullet was fired and that the queen was really in serious peril. All accounts agreed that her majesty showed courage and composure. Her demeanor since that attempt has been equally admirable. The queen herself, though understood to be always somewhat apprehensive of assassination, attaches comparatively slight importance to this outrage. She is deeply moved, nevertheless, by the world-wide demonstrations of sympathy and horror. She was also gratified by Frelinghuysen's well-meant but clumsy message. The declarations of the American press were cabled her fully. They were recognized as adequately and happily expressing the American feeling, and were cordially commented on in private. The Standard and Telegraph distinguish themselves by the heartiness with which they welcome American sympathy. The Times and News are silent. Lowell went personally to Windsor to inquire as to the queen's health and to express official congratulations.

Mr. Bradlaugh's re-election is undoubtedly unwelcome to the government, on whom it threatens to impose fresh difficulties. The passing of a bill allowing affirmation is still regarded as impossible. It is equally impossible to induce weak-minded bigots to forego opposition to the oath being taken by Bradlaugh. He may save the situation by postponing an attempt to enter the house of commons till the tories are tired of watching, and then choosing a favorable moment, accomplish the needful formalities without opposition or by an accidental majority.

A numerous and influential company, including many members of parliament, celebrated to-night the peaceful cession of Thessaly, and the termination of the work of the Greek commission, by a banquet at Willis' rooms. Lord Roseberry was in the chair. Lowell and other ministers were invited but declined on the ground that while sympathizing with Greece, they were unable, representing a friendly power, to take part in a demonstration against Turkey. Sarlaly, the Greek consul general for the past twenty years, and the acknowledged head of the Greek community, has resigned, because he was unwilling to remain in official relations with Yenneulus, the present charge d'affairs. Another letter says the Greek government will shortly recall Mr. Yenneulus, whose conduct has recently occasioned unfavorable comment in London society.

Secretary Forster's Work and Charity.

Herald's Dublin special: The chief secretary of Ireland concluded to-day his personal investigation into the state of county Clare, having held consultations with magistrates, priests, gentlemen and heads of the police, and having seized every opportunity of advising the tenant farmers to take advantage of the land act and combine to repress outrages, warning them that the government was powerful enough to maintain the law. Forster paid a personal visit of condolence to the bedside of Constable Wills, who drove the car when Wilford Lloyd was shot at, and to the tenant Maroney, both of whom lie at the point of death. Forster gave the latter a 10 pound note. He also visited the house of Col. O'Callaghan.

Herald's Limerick special: Forster before he left this place visited the Tulla district, the recent scene of many terrible outrages. Immediately on his arrival here the chief secretary proceeded to the lodgings of Clifford Lloyd and summoned the county inspector of constabulary to consultation concerning the state of the county of Clare. While armed sentinels were placed over Lloyd's house numerous bodies of police patrolled the city in all directions. Every precaution was taken for the protection of Forster. The council lasted more than three hours. Great secrecy was maintained. I am told on good authority that introduction of martial law and a mild form of other law was recommended for county Clare. At 5 P. M. Forster and Lloyd drove in an open carriage with a large escort of constabulary to Tulla, where, as at Limerick, most elaborate precautions were taken for the safety of Forster's life. Cavalry and police patrolled at easy distance all along the road, but nothing happened to-day. When it became known in Tulla that Forster was in the town all shops were closed. The chief secretary visited the scene of the moonlight outrages and expressed sympathy with the sufferers. Another council was held at Tulla with the county inspector of Clare and repressive measures recommended at Limerick are believed to have been agreed upon. The whole of east Clare is in a terrible state of lawlessness, notwithstanding the large force of soldiers and constabulary. Recent daring exploits of the moonlighters have caused the greatest alarm and uneasiness. A boycotted landlord says his windows were barricaded, the house garrisoned and the soldiers were completely prepared to resist attack. It was a sad picture of a country gentleman's residence in Ireland at the present day, but it is only one among many. On Forster's return from Athenry, the crowd at the government station heartily hooted him and groaned for his coercion policy. With this exception, the demeanor of the inhabitants of the hottest corner of Ireland was one of curiosity, mingled perhaps with some surprise at his venturing into the lions' den. As to diminution of outrages and pacification of Clare as the results of Forster's tour there may be some doubt, but as to his energy and personal courage there can be none whatever. The causes of discontent in this rack-rented country are too great to be allayed even by the personal attendance of the chief secretary for Ireland.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

A Matter for Investigation.

NEW YORK, March 4.—A Paris cable says a party of Americans traveling from Brussels to this city were subjected to indefinable brutality at the police station of Feignies on the night of the 1st instant. They were awakened by custom officials to have their baggage examined, and were abused for not immediately complying, and assaulted by the commissaire de police for protesting against the way in which Mrs. Reynolds, of Providence, was treated. That lady was roughly dragged out of a sleeping car, bareheaded, without a bonnet and cloak, and exposed to coarse jeers of douaniers. The male portion of the party resisting the violence done them, the gendarmes with fixed bayonets were called to the assistance of the officials, and three of them arrested and refused permission to telegraph the American minister and their friends. They were not released until morning, and were condemned to a fine of 500 francs each, coupled with police surveillance for eight months. The case seems exceptionally bad and calls for action on the part of our representatives here. Leon Leontine, formerly of Chicago, was one of the party.

The Case of MacLean.

LONDON, March 4.—A solicitor has been retained by friends of MacLean to defend him at the forthcoming trial. According to MacLean's own account, he has a sister married to Harris Leder, of Drury Lane theater. The railway track on which the bullet from MacLean's pistol glanced has been examined by an expert. It appears that the shot, as far as the direction is concerned, was fired in a line with the queen's carriage.

The Queen's Answer.

LONDON, March 4.—Ponsonby responds to Minister Lowell's letter as follows: The queen is much touched by your congratulations and desires to express her sincere thanks.

LONDON, March 4.—It is expected the Queen will cause a proclamation to be issued returning thanks to the British and foreign press for the heartiness of their expressions of congratulations upon her escape from death at the hand of an assassin.

Services of Thanksgiving.

LONDON, March 5.—Special prayers and thanksgiving services were held in nearly all churches and chapels of England to-day with reference to the queen's escape. Gladstone and Earl Granville were present at the chapel royal in St. James' palace, the preacher being the pastor of St. David's. The most noteworthy services were those held by Dean Bradley at Westminster abbey, Canon Prayers at chapel Savoy, Bishop of Rochester at St. Paul's, Spurgeon at Metropolitan and Dr. Parker at City Temple. The queen was in no way so much affected by any message as by that of President Arthur. Radical journals of the continent personally deplore the attempt on the queen's life. A few of the more extreme types express regret that it will be turned to account as argument in favor of reaction.

Special prayers were also offered in synagogues and the Catholic cathedral.

Special thanksgiving was held in the church of the British embassy at Paris, [illegible] and the English church at Rome. [illegible] Granville [illegible] address of congratulation to the queen on her escape.

Random Reports from Russia.

Strict orders have been issued to prevent foreign correspondents in Russia from sending telegraphic communication with the papers they represent.

The Nihilist Indictments.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 5.—The Official Messenger publishes the text of the indictment and sentences of Nihilists recently on trial. The sentences are the same as already reported, except that of Frolenko, [illegible] and the woman, Jakimova, sentenced to death, and Trigonia and Lustig condemned to imprisonment for twenty years and Barrinakoff and Merkin to hard labor in Siberian mines for an indefinite period. The minister of justice has recommended the czar to commute Lustig's sentence to imprisonment for four years in a fortress with hard labor.

French Defeat Insurgents.

ALGIERS, March 5.—A dispatch from Din Sefra says a body of 300 French reconnoitering in a southerly direction, surprised and defeated a body of insurgents. 1500 insurgents afterwards endeavoring to bar the passage of the French, the insurgents were completely routed, leaving one hundred killed and wounded. French loss, 12 killed and wounded.

Arrested for Lying.

VIENNA, March 4.—Two persons have been arrested at Ragusa for assisting a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian to spread false news of insurgent victories.

Sympathy for Insurgents.

The Syrilla and Mothedus Slavonic society of Odessa, in order to testify its sympathy with Krivocians and Herzegovinians, unanimously elected Stogan, the Krivorian insurgent leader, an honorary member, and has applied to the government for permission to organize subscriptions in aid of refugees in Montenegro. Generals Gourko and Skobeloff were also elected honorary members.

Killed in a Mine.

VIENNA, March 5.—Forty persons are reported killed by falling down a shaft in a mine near Toplitz.

A GREAT DEMONSTRATION.

Proceedings of the Anti-Chinese Meeting at San Francisco on Saturday.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—The anti-Chinese demonstration this afternoon was on a grand scale. Long before the time fixed, Piatt's hall was packed with the best citizens, while a crowd of probably 30,000 surged about the stands erected on Montgomery and Pine streets. The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion with national colors. At 2 o'clock the meeting was called to order by Jacob S. Taber, president of the board of trade, who read a long list of vice presidents, composed of leading citizens in every department of business, including all judges of United States and state courts. In a few words Mr. Taber introduced mayor Blake as presiding officer. Mr. Blake spoke briefly, dwelling upon the importance of appealing to the good judgment and sense of propriety of the nation. After a short address by Hon. Philip A. Roach, W. E. Sheridan, the actor, read Governor Perkins' proclamation appointing a legal holiday, and a letter expressing the inability of the governor to be present and his entire sympathy with the demonstration. The chairman then read the following dispatch from Governor Kinkaid, of Nevada: "Nevada unites with your people to-day. Meetings will be held in all towns of this state to give expression to popular opinion." Mr. Sheridan then read a resolution prepared for the occasion. The preamble recites the ruinous consequences of Chinese immigration, and continues:

People of San Francisco, in general mass meeting assembled, do therefore solemnly reiterate and reaffirm unanswered and unanswerable arguments heretofore made in their previous petitions to congress for relief, and they further respectfully urge that time and experience have but confirmed their apprehensions as to grave dangers that would arise from unrestricted Chinese immigration. It is therefore

Resolved, That, laying aside all social and political distinctions, we unite as one man, as one people, as loyal and law-abiding citizens of the republic, in urging upon congress the absolute necessity for speedy and effective legislation pursuant to terms of recent treaty with China, restricting and controlling Chinese immigration; be it further

Resolved, That our senators and representatives from this coast have our entire approval and hearty and united support in their efforts to present this great question to the country as of vital importance and deserving immediate and favorable action on the part of the federal government; be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be telegraphed to our senators and representatives in congress.

The resolutions were greeted with enthusiasm and adopted.

The chairman then read a dispatch from Senator Farley expressing confidence in the passage of the anti-Chinese bill. The meeting was then addressed by Judge J. S. Hogan, M. M. Estee, Irving M. Scott, Paul Newman, John F. Swift, ex-treaty commissioner to China; Wm. T. Coleman, Horace Davis, George Flournoy, Dr. J. C. Shorb, Rev. T. Barrows, E. C. Marshall, Henry B. Highton, John P. Jackson, Frank J. Sullivan, Thos. J. Clunie, Robt. H. Tyler, Geo. A. Knight, A. P. Vandusen, James H. Barry, William B. May, Marcus D. Boruck, E. B. Stonehill, Peter Deane, C. W. Pope, David McClure, L. E. Pratt, T. P. Williams, Geo. K. Porter, Walter H. Levy, H. N. Clement, John A. Wright, B. V. Watson, Leander Quint, E. D. Wheeler, Charles A. Sumner, Henry Wollron and D. J. Toohy—some of the gentlemen speaking in the hall and others addressing crowds in the street. The speeches were characterized by moderation and dignity of tone and calm argument, reviewing in a number of cases positions taken by opponents of the measure now before congress. During the meeting a procession of working men, escorting a number of children in a wagon bearing the motto, "Shall our boys and girls, or Chinamen, have California?" passed through the crowd on Montgomery street and was received with applause. The demonstrations throughout were conducted with the greatest decorum, becoming the deliberate expression of sentiment of all classes of the city, irrespective of business or politics. Business closed for the day and the observance of the holiday was general. Dispatches are pouring in from the interior, showing that similar demonstrations have been held throughout California and Nevada.

MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 6, 1882.

INCREASED COAL PRODUCTION.

The increase of coal production in the United States is shown by comparative tables just issued from the census bureau. Of marketable coal there was produced in 1880 28,646,995 tons of anthracite and 42,420,581 tons of bituminous, making a total increase in the last decade of 38,203,000 tons, equivalent to an increase in the rate of production of 116½ per cent. The ratio of gain between the two species, which is a striking one, is in favor of the bituminous, which has increased 147 per cent. against the 82½ per cent. increase of the anthracite. This difference is due to the fact that the new coal beds developed by new railroads have been almost entirely bituminous, while the anthracite production has remained practically restricted to the boundaries of the old fields in Pennsylvania. The above figures, indicating as they do a four-fold increase of coal consumption over the ratio of population, are remarkable. Reasons for this increase are sought in the facts that the supply of vegetable fuel from the forests has diminished materially: that the marked expansion of the railroad system has opened up bituminous coal lands and has caused the substitution of coal for wood fuel among the farmers and miners in the west; that the consumption of fuel by the railroads has greatly increased, and has drawn upon the coal supply by reason of the all but complete abandonment of the wood fuel used by railroads in the previous decade; and that the consumption of coal has been further largely increased by the iron trade and the increased demand following the very general growth of manufacturing interests in the country. Lastly, the cheapening of the cost of coal is found to be an important factor in accounting for the great increase in its production. The cost of labor, in proportion to the production of the mineral, has diminished. In 1870, for instance, it cost 68⅓ cents per ton to mine anthracite and $1 02¾ to mine bituminous, while ten years later the prices were 79 and 67¾ cents respectively, and the average market price declined from $2 23 per ton in 1870 to $1 26 in 1880, a decrease of 97 cents per ton. This decrease occurred in spite of the increase of 10½ cents per ton in the cost of mining the anthracite. The reduced cost of transportation has likewise been a factor in increasing the consumption. Striking as has been this increase, however, it is small when compared with the consumption of manufacturing nations. Thus, the present consumption is barely equal to England's in 1855, when that country produced 72,420,769 tons of 2000 pounds. This rate of production has increased in 1880 to 164,436,296 tons, thus yielding a production of 6⅓ tons per head of the population, against a per capita ratio of production of 1 42-100 in America. One authority attributes this great difference to the disparity in the maritime and industrial status of the two countries.

GLADSTONE'S PROPOSED COMPROMISE.

Mr. Gladstone's recent utterances on the home rule question have created a gerat stir. He frankly declares that he is willing to entertain the home rule projects, provided the Irish members can show him that home rule does not mean imperial dismemberment. Mr. Justin McCarthy, the Irish leader pro tem., will shortly submit a home rule scheme, but it probably will not be satisfactory to the premier or the Irish national party. Mr. McCarthy, to judge from his magazine articles on the subject, favors the home rule enjoyed by the provinces in the Canadian confederation. Ireland is to have absolute control over all minor legislation affecting her interests, and to exercise a supreme voice in the regulation of educational, religious and municipal matters. But, if in the Dominion provincial autonomy is constantly clashing with federal supremacy, what would happen in Ireland? On the Canadian plan all acts passed by parliament on College Green would be subject to review and disallowance by the imperial ministry, and this would lead to a smash up before home rule was a year old. It is possible to conceive of a harmonious Irish parliament, composed of advanced nationalists, whose ambition is an Irish republic, and Ulster orangemen, who see the pope's hand in everything, and who look upon Mr. Parnell as the direct representative of King James, but such a body could not be constituted as things are now in Ireland. The old Irish parliament, whose glories were so often sung, was a Protestant body wholly, and, moreover, at that period of Irish history the Ulster men were quite as "advanced" as the men of Munster. But since then Ulster has become the seat of the Orange society, and nationalism is extinct there. Mr. McCarthy has a difficult job in hand, and, viewing the matter from eight thousand miles away, success seems impossible. If home rule were in existence to-day, and Mr. Parnell passed a land bill, it would be disallowed beyond doubt by the imperial government, and then what would become of home rule? No such half way house can be built between Ireland's present position and her absolute independence of British rule. Mr. Gladstone's offer is very liberal and demonstrates his good purpose in the matter of Irish legislation.

THE NEW YORK IMMIGRANT TAX.

Last year the New York legislature passed a law taxing steamship companies $1 per capita for each immigrant landed in New York city. The tax was intended to cover the expense of inspecting the immigrants, and the belief was that the state had some right to be protected from the cost incident to the landing or importation of criminals, paupers, diseased persons, the deaf and dumb, blind, idiotic and insane, and to be saved the expense which belonged to the landing of 440,000 persons in a single year in the principal harbor of the state and the county. This tax has been contested in the state courts and held to be unconstitutional. The decision is an extremely hard one for the state. The payment of this one dollar, it was supposed by general consent, after joint conference and discussion, would be compromised by the payment of half a dollar for each immigrant passenger landed in the city. Some nine or more of the owners of these ships, it was understood, had agreed to this compromise, and a majority of the commissioners of emigation had so far consented to the proposed change in the law of 1881 as to permit a law to be sent to the present legislature reducing the proposed amount one-half. Such an act is now before both houses of the legislature. What will now be done is a matter of conjecture. Mr. Cox has a bill before congress which makes the United States government responsible for the cost or head money necessary for the temporary support of the immigrants. The legislatures of 1878-'79-'80 and '81 urged upon congress the passage of a proper federal law to to accomplish a thing which the United States courts declare the states have no right to perform. The legislature of 1882 will again press upon congress the necessity of prompt action, and the two state senators and thirty-three state representatives and a president of the United States from New York ought to have sufficient influence to relieve all the seaboard states from the performance of a duty which belongs exclusively to the federal government. In the meantime, the state will have to bear all the charges which belong to the commissioners of emigration, and these at times have been in excess of $100,000 a year. The more immigrants, the more necessary expenses. Fortunately the average character of those landed last year was an improvement upon those arriving in previous years, but latterly large numbers of destitute persons have been received, especially from ports on the Mediterranean.

The gambling law at Chicago is very strict, but has never been enforced, the general opinion being that to enforce it is impossible. Mayor Harrison has tried two or three plans of compromise, and each having failed will test a severe method. On the 21st ult. he addressed to the chief of police the following order: "You will instruct the captains and lieutenants in command of police to see that all gambling houses in their respective precincts be closed forthwith. You will also instruct them that all confidence men, monte men, and other known thieves be immediately arrested and prosecuted under the vagrancy act. I have reason to believe that many of these characters are now making Chicago their headquarters, and are plying their nefarious calling on incoming and outgoing trains. You will also instruct that sections 1708 and 1713 of the municipal code, requiring pawnbrokers to enter on their books an accurate description of property received by them and to forward the same to police headquarters each day, be strictly enforced." The order was carried into effect at once. There was hustling to get out of town on the part of the "vags," so that but few of them were caught. The gambling houses barred their doors but by keeping a close lookout for the police managed to continue business. How the matter will turn out is an interesting question.

A sad state of affairs exists in the Mississippi valley in Arkansas and Mississippi. The high water of the past few weeks has broken levees and inundated the country for many miles on either side of the river. Plantations and farms are in some cases as effectually blotted out of existence as were those of Holland when the Zuyder Zee swept over that unfortunate land. In several instances great loss of life has occurred and thousands of cattle, horses, sheep and other stock drowned. The actual damage to the country over which this disastrous flood has swept will not fall short of several millions, and the donation by congress of $100,000 will only keep from starvation for a time those who have lost all but life.

The claim to Alcatraz island put forward by General Fremont probably amounts to nothing in fact, but it will be the means of bringing a great deal of interesting and half-forgotten history to light. Probably three-fourths of the residents of San Francisco will learn for the first time, through the papers of this morning, that it was General Fremont who named the "Golden Gate." The part of this once great man in the early affairs of the Pacific Coast was most important. "How soon are we forgotten."

The house committee on coinage, backed by Director Burchard, recommend establishment of a mint at St. Louis or some other point on the Mississippi river. If another mint is needed it should be established in the northwest, where bullion production, already great, is increasing more rapidly than in any other section of the country. A mint at The Dalles or Baker City would be well located, and would stimulate the mining industry of Eastern Oregon and Washington.

Poor Scoville! He gave up his business, devoted half a year to an unprofitable and losing job, endured reproach and insult from the wretch who he was defending, suffered abuse and criticism from every part of the nation—all for sweet charity's sake—and now goes down-hearted and empty-handed home, cursed by those whose prayers should follow him. Truly his lines are hard. He made a mistake in getting into the Guiteau family.

Captain Eads is undaunted by rebuffs. He claims the committees of both houses with as much confidence as if he himself composed both of them. He assumes a careless air in speaking of his plans, talking as if he thought he were doing the government a great favor by offering it a $50,000,000 interest in his scheme.

Guiteau recently remarked that he would be a great success in the lecture field. Commenting thereon, the Chicago Tribune has not a doubt that his appearance on the platform (on June 30, 1882) will be hailed with great satisfaction by the American people.

The Methodist ministers of Chicago, about twenty in number, considered the Logan whiskey tax bill at a recent meeting. Rev. Dr. Hatfield favored the bill, but a majority condemned it as an "alliance with rum."

The English press expresses great satisfaction at the manifestation of sympathy with the queen by the American people, which fulfills the anticipations at first expressed by them.

At St. Vincent's hospital, on the 4th inst., Mr. Andrew West, aged 69 years.

The deceased was a blacksmith by occupation, and resided for over twenty years at Steilacoom and Olympia. He had been for over two years an inmate of the county hospital, and last October made application for admission to St. Vincent's hospital, where he remained until his death. He received the kindest attention and care (as, indeed, every patient does) from the good sisters and their attentive nurse, Mr. John Kenny.

NEW NICKEL-PLATING MACHINE.

The Oregon Stove Foundry have recently added to their establishment a machine for nickel-plating. It was made for them in New York at a cost of $4000, and is the only one of the kind north of San Francisco A practical man from the factory accompanied the machine, set it up and will superintend its workings Saturday, for the first time it was placed in operation, and an OREGONIAN reporter, through the courtesy of Mr Louis Kuhn secretary of the company, was permitted to take a glance at the machine It is very much like the machine in use at the pavilion for furnishing lights for the electric lamps, and is operated in the same way It will be used principally in nickel plating stove ornaments but may be utilized for any metal in any shape requiring nickel plating

The works now employ fifty five hands For the reason that their block near Weidler's mill was too small for future requirements, the managers have abandoned the idea of building a foundry there As soon as a suitable site can be secured they will begin the construction of a fire proof factory—probably this summer

THE "AGITATOR" SEPARATOR.

Something About the Perfection Attained in a Threshing Machine.

Saturday afternoon, Messrs Stavers & Walker, the energetic and successful agents for the well known J I Case Threshing Machine Company, of Racine Wisconsin gave an exhibition of the workings of the celebrated "Agitator Separator at their ware rooms, foot of Morrison street The operations were witnessed with satisfaction by a number of gentlemen interested The separator was sold to Pendleton & Co Buttonville Marion county, and will be shipped Wednesday No written description of the machine can accurately convey an insight to its workings and it must be seen to be thoroughly appreciated The manufacturers and agents are ready to prove that it can clean wheat faster than it can be threshed will separate cleaner from the straw that it runs lighter and is less complicated than any other machine on the market

In 1879 Mr J I Case, the head of this great manufacturing enterprise invented the machine and built five as an experiment They expected next year to sell 200, they sold 650 In 1881 notwithstanding the drought and short crops in many western states they sold 1500 and this year they expect to sell 2000 Every one so far turned out gave satisfaction and not one was ever returned Seven of the machines have been sold in Oregon and Washington Stavers & Walker do not say that the "Agitator cannot be improved upon but they maintain and only ask the opportunity to practically demonstrate that it is to-day the most perfect threshing machine made

Saturday morning Coroner Garrold began an inquest over the remains of Henry C Prang who was killed Friday evening by Annie Murray Testimony was taken in the parlors of Willamette Engine Company, No 1 whither the body had been removed The witnesses examined were C M Forbes Harvey Dillabaugh, Daisy Laurence, Jennie Morton A J Vincent Martin Johnson, John Barber James Mott A J Moses Wm Beck R Loretz and I Wing The only fact elicited in addition to those published in Saturday's OREGONIAN was that Murray bought the revolver at Beck & Sons Following is the written testimony of Dr O B Bird "I was called to the rooms over the Arion saloon on Yamhill street above First March 3d between 5 and 7 o clock P M I examined the body now before the jury, called Henry Prang and found a bullet hole through the calf of the left leg just back of the bones also a bullet wound two and one half inches below the upper end of the breast bone and one half inch to the left of the middle going through the breast bone I found a ball under the tissues of the back midway between the spine and inner edge of the shoulder blade and two inches above the lower part of the shoulder blade Blood was flowing from the mouth In my opinion, the ball perforated the arch of the aorta (or main blood vessel) and passed through the left main branch of the windpipe This would let a torrent of blood in the windpipe, and probably prevent the victim from drawing another breath The jury which was composed of R J Forbes Chas A Wheeler T G Harkins M Payne W L Higgins and F Carney, adjourned until Monday morning

The inability to procure white men in sufficient numbers to do the required work has impelled the railroad corporations to make a virtue of necessity resulting in contracting for the services of an immense number of Chinese to carry on the proposed work during the present year and from well informed sources THE OREGONIAN learns that from five to nine thousand Chinamen will reach here within a few months from Hongkong In expressing the belief that these figures were placed too high a Chinese merchant offered to a gentleman who doubted the statement to pay him $10 each for the number arriving under 7000 if the gentleman would agree to pay the same amount per capita for all over that number The offer was for prudential reasons refused The intention of the Chinese merchants is to have these coolies reach here as soon as possible in order that they will not be barred out under the bills now under discussion in congress, which are not to go into effect for some months after the signing of the same by the president The work of gathering those coolies has already commenced in Hongkong, and they will be sent here as speedily as possible Three English steamers now in Hongkong have already been chartered two by Tong Tai [illegible] a Hongkong merchant and one by the firm of Kwong Tai of this city the two former bringing 700 and 850 passengers respectively the latter 1000 In addition to large cargoes of merchandise Tal Hing another Hongkong merchant has already under charter three sailing vessels Hop Kee another merchant has chartered the Allen Besse and Coloma The Kate Davenport is also under charter and still another bark has been secured by another Chinese firm in this city This makes a fleet of three steamers and seven sailers already chartered at Hongkong for this port—all for passengers and cargo—and efforts are being made to secure from five to seven more sailers to follow in quick succession from Hongkong to this city From this it would appear that the statement of the Chinese merchant that 1000 coolies would be sent here this spring is within the bounds of reason

SUPREME COURT.

SALEM March 4

Court met pursuant to adjournment Present, Lord C J and Watson J

John Luhrs respondent vs A J and Carrie Sturgeant appellants appeal from Wasco county Decree of the court below reversed Opinion by Lord C J

SYLLABUS

A court of equity ought not to interfere to prevent a public nuisance or to prevent one abate existing at the instance of a private party unless he shows a special injury distinct from the public, justly apprehended or actually sustained

The obstruction of a public highway is a public nuisance but this, of itself, is not sufficient to justify the interposition of equity, unless the plaintiff sustains some private direct and material damage beyond the public at large

Where it does not appear from the complaint that the property of the plaintiff adjoins the alleged road or that his only means of access to it are over and along such road, or that the road obstructed is the only highway which connects his farm with the store and school house in question and no special injury to his property is averred, nor personal injury outside of the inconvenience he experiences from the obstruction of the highway in common with all the people, Held that such complaint does not state facts sufficient to authorize the interference of equity, at the instance of a private party

Facts must be alleged and specifications of the injury made so that the court can understand how and to what extent there will be injury

Where the right of the public to the use of the highway is clear and the obstruction of it seriously affects the value and substance of an individual's estate, or he suffers an injury distinct from the public as a consequence of such obstruction equity will afford relief and abate such nuisance

The State of Oregon appellant vs Andrew J Sturgis, respondent appeal from Multnomah county the judgment of the court below was affirmed Opinion by Watson J

SYLLABUS

The act of the legislative assembly entitled an act to protect salmon, approved October 25 1880, does not apply to the Columbia river

1 It is a conversion for one entrusted with the possession of chattels with power to sell only to pledge the same as security for advances made on his own account

2 Such conversion would support an action by the owner for the value of the property without reference to any other remedy she might have on contract but if she elect to bring her action on the contract for the amount of the proceeds of sales made under such contract with out having the act of conversion as a breach she is not entitled to recover for the value of the property so converted

A week before the rain stopped many farmers in their discouragement sowed a great many oats in the mud. Labor is plentiful at fair wages.

Thirty seven miles of the Memphis & Little Rock railroad across the river is under water. A large number of people continue coming from Arkansas, being forced to leave their homes

HELENA, Ark, March 4.—The river here within the past 24 hours rose nearly 2 inches, and the overflow in the city is fully as much. It is predicted we will have more than 12 inches higher water by old river men.

Inspection by the Naval Committee.

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—The congressional naval committee inspected to-day at Wilmington and Chester the unfinished monitors. Observations made by members of the committee with one or two exceptions may be said to have impressed them with the idea that the monitors could be fitted up, if only for the purpose of harbor defense. Chairman Harris says he will report to congress and leave the decision with that body. He said further, I think it would be well to put sufficient work on the vessels which were examined to-day to warrant launching them. If this were done, and vessels placed in fresh water at League Island, for instance, they may remain there for fifty years if necessary, without expense to the government except for painting, and be ready for use in case of emergency

A Memphis Newspaper Row.

MEMPHIS, March 4.—Last evening ex-Gov R J Morgan who has gubernatorial aspirations, met Col S S Nichols, of the Memphis Avalanche, on Madison street, and saying "Defend yourself, you old scoundrel!" began to assault him with a heavy cane, hitting him four times over the head, and knocking him to the ground. The parties then clinched but were separated by friends. Morgan is a large, strong man but Nichols has the reputation of being one of the strongest men in Memphis, and a Hercules. The cause of the encounter was an editorial written by Nichols calling Morgan an artful dodger and other names. Morgan requested Nichols not to have anything more of that nature in the paper or he would hold him responsible. Nichols pleasantly endorsed what he had already said. He gave the "bluff" and was called. Both men are fearless, and there is every probability that some arrangement according to the "code duello" will be made

THE CHINESE BILL.

Editorial Comments on the Recent Debate in Senate.

MILLER'S SPEECH CONCEDED TO BE ABLE AND CONCLUSIVE

The Eastern Press Waking Up to a Knowledge of the Importance of the Chinese Question

[illegible]

[illegible] President Hayes [illegible] for the purpose of negotiating a treaty and in whose provisions restrictive regulations could be applied to Chinese emigration. This treaty was secured, the commission granted and in time it agreed upon. The senate ratified that treaty with scarcely a dissenting voice. The bill now before congress is intended to enforce the treaty stipulations. Miller very forcibly argued that a great nation like ours cannot afford inconsistencies of action or be a vacillating, staggering, inconstant policy in its intercourse with other nations. We cannot through a parade of an extraordinary embassy secure a diplomatic agreement exchange ratifications and in half a year cast aside the necessity as worthless, unless we wish to make a confession of American imbecility to an oriental power. The question is already authoritatively settled by the previous action of the president and of both houses of congress. It will be seen that this is a strong statement of the case so far as the consistency of the law making power and the treaty making power is concerned. The bill that failed because of the veto was debated long and earnestly and it met with executive disapproval only on account of reasons lying outside of the bill itself. As for the position of the political parties in respect of this question Miller showed by extracts from platforms of both great parties, that each had committed itself to the anti immigration policy by most solemn acts and declarations. As those who have long fought against all proposed restrictive legislation as applied to Chinese, have been finally forced to admit that the people of California who have faced this "invasion" for 25 or 30 years are best qualified to judge of its effects. With great reluctance probably, many of us have been obliged to concede that those who have so long demanded restrictive legislation are entitled to what they ask for because, after a long experience, in which we have not shared they are constant to their conviction of the need of a remedy for the ills they endure. Miller argued that we protect American industry by high tariffs in foreign manufactures. This is done to protect American labor from "the pauper labor of Europe." But in California the cheapest labor in the world is admitted free to compete directly with American labor. The European laborer conforms to the American's ideal. He becomes Americanized and soon surrounds himself with the comforts and luxuries of civilized life. A Chinaman is a Chinaman wherever he goes. He does not become assimilated. He lives in the street and subsists upon the refuse of the land. He can not become an American citizen being debarred by provisions of the treaties and having apparently no concern whatever in that direction. For the first time since the agitation of the Chinese question began it has been discussed in the U S senate dispassionately with dignity and with statesmanlike ability. So far as we can now read any speech made upon this question the address of Miller is the very first that evinces patient study, perfect candor and great breadth of view. Happily for the senate this admirable opening of the debate had its influence upon succeeding speakers, although none showed so great familiarity with the subject as Miller. Hoar who is credited with being one of the two senators who opposed ratification of the treaty made the best possible use of the old cry "race prejudice" but his reference to Hayes's veto of the anti Coolie bill was to say the least unfortunate. The state of facts has been wholly changed since the new treaty has been made with China nor is there any possible parallel to be drawn between the condition of the negro in the United States and that of the Chinese. He conceded to California the same right which he would claim for his own people, of judging for themselves in regard to matters which were strictly of local importance. It was apparent to his mind that this legislation was invoked under the influence of overmastering passions. The suspension of immigration for ten years would give these passions time to cool off. Bayard made a half hour speech closing the debate for the day. His private idea was that the obedience and peacefulness of the celestial was the result of the influence of an external repressing force under which for ages the Chinese had lived and which rendered them quite incapable of fostering and appreciating republican ideas and principles. Chinaman in the United States might aim at suppose the Massachusetts senator to be joking when he lauded the Chinese as inventors of gun powder and the printing press. Even if we concede these very doubtful claims in behalf of China they can have no appreciable effect in determining the present question which wholly relates to the importation of contract laborers. Several democratic senators Layard, Saulsbury, Grover, Farley, Garland and Maxey, have spoken in favor of the bill. Bayard's speech was in an elevated and dignified tone and he warned senators that this question cannot be postponed. Ingalls took a sensible view that the people of the Pacific states best know the magnitude of the ills that oppress them and they were entitled to the only remedy now apparent. His is the deliberate judgment probably of a majority of our fellow citizens, and there is but little doubt that the bill will pass, and that the long vexed question will thus be settled by the only authority competent to give it final adjustment

Tribune editorial. It is to be feared that senators who voted for adjournment yesterday when the Chinese immigration bill seemed likely to be passed, will be so refreshed by Monday that they can talk for the greater part of the week. The dullness of most of the speeches thus far makes this outlook dreary. It is a great pity that the celestials who are so neat, frugal industrious, obedient and quiet are not nice in other ways. Perhaps before twenty years are gone the Pacific slope will want these people back

NEW YORK, Mar 3.—Tribune's Washington correspondent on the Chinese debate. The speeches of to day were in favor of the measure, although objectionable features were presented and were uniformly dull. Farley, democratic senator from California, was especially prosy, but this perhaps was to be expected, for Miller's speech of Tuesday exhausted the affirmative side of the question and left nothing for his colleague except to reassert the stock arguments which were first heard from the lips of Kearney against the slant eyed celestials

Maxey asserted at unnecessary length his own belief that the framers of the constitution contemplated opening the way for a life of liberty and pursuit of happiness to Asiatics

Senator Salisbury, who once explored the Chinese quarter of San Francisco, gave some hints of his conviction formed by that experience that mongolians and Caucasians would never assimilate and that mongolians were not desirable neighbors

Garland's speech was a legal argument discussing the right of the government under the treaty to legislate for the prevention of Chinese immigration

Ingalls did not make a speech but pointed out some defects in the bill and proposed some amendments the principal one providing that suspension of immigration should be for ten instead of twenty years as in original bill. In behalf of the explanation of his position he said he would as soon think of destroying all mules, horses or all labor saving engines and machinery of the country as of repelling or expelling a class of deserving patient obedient and frugal people

World's editorial. No doubt there is a great deal of demagogism in the California treatment of the Chinese question and it is in California or at least on the Pacific coast alone that there can be said to be a Chinese question. It has been shown over and over again that the Chinese question is less and less a burning question, and that immigration from the Chinese empire is steadily diminishing but the less has the possibility of great immigration been shown. Two or three bad seasons in the crowded empire would set in motion toward our shores a stream of immigration for which a channel already exists and which might, very probably, attain proportions that would make it very hard to deal with. There cannot be a better time than this when it is only in the Pacific States that any passion or prejudice prevents a reasonable discussion of this subject for establishing principles upon which we should deal with the immigration

[illegible]

Now if we apply this principle to the Chinese question not in its actual proportion but there as [illegible] the country at large but in its possible proportion it will be seen that the emergency might very readily arise in which it would be only proper and would be patriotic to [illegible] strict Chinese immigration. The task of [illegible] American [illegible] of men who [illegible] from people of the United

WASHINGTON CITY

Star Route Indictments Prepared

WASHINGTON, March [illegible] cial [illegible] in all star route cases for consideration by the grand jury. There are seventeen of these indictments. Fourteen are already endorsed by the grand jury. True bills for the remainder of which including those against General Brady, will be presented in court to morrow. The indictment against Brady Dorsey et al is the most voluminous document and contains one hundred special allegations of fraudulent acts and covers transactions in twenty one post routes

Committee Matters.

The house committee on public lands to day reported a bill to return the military reservation at Fort Abercrombie Minnesota to the public domain and open it to actual settlers

The senate finance committee will take up to morrow Allison's reserve fund bill

Since the meeting of the house committee on rules this morning more attention has been given to the contest over their adoption. Blackburn and Randall are very earnest in the desire to make a strong fight on them. They assert changes are made in the interests of the lobby and if adopted the loss to the treasury will be immense. Randall probably fears defection from the democratic side in favor of new rules, for he has already urged the democratic caucus to discuss and decide the party policy when the time comes to vote. Reed author of the principal amendments recommended by the majority report is very confident that full discussion of them will result in a considerable democratic vote in their favor. He counts on all of the greenback vote and independents. The prospect is good for a prolonged contest

Will be Opposed

The Sherman proposition looking to restriction of the coinage of silver will be earnestly opposed by Beck and other silver men on the committee as they regard it as reopening the fight against silver. Senator Vest is not hopeful of any action by the committee on his bill to prohibit issuance of currency by national banks. Many democratic members of both houses are opposed to making such an issue with the immense banking interests of the country

The Chili-Peruvian Investigation.

The senate and house special committee on the Chili Peruvian diplomatic scandal will begin work Monday. Kasson on the part of the house committee and Windom of the senate assert the inquiry to be thorough and fearless. Blaine will be examined and his friends appear entirely confident nothing can come out damaging to him. It is pretty certain he has a very large mass of correspondence in relation to South American affairs which he will produce. An ardent friend in the house to day said there was dynamite under Blaine's head which would astonish the country but which would do no injury to the ex-secretary. The house committee will hold its first meeting for taking testimony Monday next

Whitthorne Congratulated.

Representative Whitthorne says he has showers of letters congratulating him on his speech in favor of a distinctive American foreign policy and applauding his return to the ancient democratic doctrine as first laid down in the famous Ostend manifesto. He declares his speech is an endorsement of Blaine but declares that the ex-secretary has the sympathy of all democrats who love the traditions of the party in the early stage of our attitude to other republics of the new world. Senator Call, who probably will deliver a speech at an early day, is taking a similar position

Opinion of one who Knows.

The National Republican amongst editorial paragraphs to day has the following. Almost the entire population of the Pacific slope including clergy, the literary, the churches leading men and women in every walk of life are hostile to Chinese immigration. This fact is a sufficient to outweigh the garrulous gush of sentimentalists who have no practical knowledge of the subject. The christians and philanthropists of California are quite as likely to be right on this matter that lies at their doors as their brethren three or four thousand miles away. The Chinese are the only class of immigrants who compete directly with working women of the United States in the few occupations by which a poor and unlearned woman may earn bread for herself or her children

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Seattle Notes.

SEATTLE, March 4.—The coal shipment from this port to San Francisco was unusually light last month reaching a total of only 80 [illegible] tons. Lack of shipping was the cause of the reduced trade

The little steamer [illegible] of eight tons was sold yesterday by G H Smith to the Puget Sound Transportation Company for $[illegible] 00. She will be taken to Olympia and employed between that town and the logging camps and oyster fisheries in the neighborhood

Frost has been living the life of a crazy hermit for nearly ten years just on his farm a few miles north of this city he having no intercourse whatever with his fellow men never coming to town, feeding on skunk cabbage and the like and dwelling in a cave clothed only in the meanest of rags and being constantly armed with one or more deadly weapons. His land consists of 480 acres worth $10 000. His insanity was caused by troubles with his neighbors long ago, and for many years he has been a pronounced enemy to old settlers who he imagines are continually trying to rob him of his home and property. His attorney has demanded a trial by jury of twelve men which will be given to him

SEATTLE, March 4.—Henry Villard has written as follows to the attorney of the railroad company in this city in corroboration of his repeated declaration that this town should this year be connected with the railroad system of Oregon and Washington. "It being doubtful whether the Northern Pacific railroad company can build the line under its congressional charter we propose to connect your town with Tacoma by a standard gauge to be owned by the transcontinental company, but operated by the Northern Pacific

The trial by jury of Osmine Frost, charged with being a lunatic, has occupied the court all day and will not be concluded until Monday or Tuesday next

Two young men living on the bay near this city were fooling with a pistol this afternoon. One pointed it at the other and thoughtlessly pulled the trigger. The bullet struck the other in the left jaw, knocking out three teeth and badly shattering the bone. The wound is a painful one, and if erysipelas sets in will be fatal. Had not the teeth been struck by the bullet the wounded man would have now been dead

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Business in general markets does not meet expectation and they still show the same apathetic condition that has characterized the market the past two months. Home trade is light, while export trade has been hindered by speculation

Wheat is irregular. Foreign dispatches are hardly as good as generally expected which put a damper on owners who had been anticipating well sustained markets abroad. For several days there has been a good many orders here from the other side, and the decline in prices yesterday enabled exporters to fill many of them. To day but few orders were received at the lower prices was not enough to make it possible for exporters to do much with their present limits which are several cents below the market for the least desirable winter grades

Barley—Quiet and unsettled

Pork—Quiet and nominal

Lard—More active at a decline

Coffee—Held with a good deal of confidence at last prices

Refined sugars—In good demand and firmer, at an advance

Teas—Not quoted, but prices are firmly held

Foreign Fruits—Aside from firmness in Valencia raisins very quiet although former prices are maintained

Canned Goods—Salmon quiet buyers holding off, and will not make offers as they think present high prices for new fish in California will not be maintained. Sales of 15,000 cases favorite brands at full figures $1 70@1 75

Fruits—Quiet for spot goods and too early to predict for future

Borax—Fair demand and stocks limited. California refined 12½c concentrated, 12c

Hops—Quiet no California here of any account. There is moderate inquiry for good worth about 24c,

California Beans—No inquiry as the San Francisco market is too high

California Glue—Fair demand and firm at 41½c

Quicksilver—Dull at 41c

Hides—In moderate demand at full prices

Turpentine—Firm and quiet

Common Rosin—Very firm and fine grades slow but firm

Pig Lead—Quiet common $5 18 tin plat a very dull

Hardware—In good general demand and prices firm

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

House

WASHINGTON, March 4

[illegible]

Cox inquired whether the bill of Hoar prevailing that an Irish [illegible] a naturalized citizen of the United States [illegible] a United States citizen [illegible]

Robeson—I don't understand it. But I remember that that treaty and all treaties which recognized the right to [illegible] the rights of foreign born citizens here and elsewhere had originated in the cabinet of General Grant and were placed on the treaty book under his auspices and when there was a two thirds republican majority in the senate

Cox—Do you approve the Bancroft treaty

Robeson—I did not take the floor to answer all questions of my own belief in the legislation of the country. I merely took the floor to say that like any other good cause the Irish cause has lost much by the weakness of its leaders and inconsistency of its advocates. The freedom of labor Irish or German must look for its protection in future as it has done in the past to that party and that party only, which cherishes in its principles and illustrates in its action deep and profound sympathy with man, and not to that party which during its years of power held labor in chains and degraded it with association with slavery

Cox—The gentleman did not answer the question I proposed. Though he was a member of Gen Grant's cabinet and though he remembers that the question of expatriation came up in the cabinet, and that Senator Hoar was representing Grant in this bill, he does not dare defend the Bancroft treaty, which naturalized citizens without consulting them. Well did Cunningham, gentlemen, avoid answering the question. When any man on the other side impeaches this side with being recreant in its devotion to the naturalization of a citizen in all his rights and privileges and when he arrogates to himself any such special devotion, he falsifies history

Cox urged abrogation of the Bancroft treaty

Robeson said that during the thirty years that the democratic party held sway, that principle had never been embodied either in legislation or in treaty, and it had remained for the republican administration of Gen Grant to recognize it and place in the statute book forever

Lord argued the consular service was a useful, hard working and honorable service whose efficiency has been greatly augmented of late

Williams of Wisconsin suggested if the democratic party was not a friend of the Irish it ought to be, for at times it would be seriously inconvenienced if it were not for Irish voters. The committee on foreign affairs had now under consideration the subject of imprisonment of Irish-American citizens. When it received all information it could get the committee would bring it before the house, then let the house decide in due order who was the best friend of American citizens abroad. He cared not whether that citizen were American, Irish, English, German, democratic, republican, white or black. Wherever he was incarcerated let every power of this government be invoked to burst his prison doors and set him free

Reading of the bill for amendments was proceeded with. Springer offered an amendment abolishing consular fees. Rejected

Brumm moved to strike out the provision for consul at Lisbon. Adopted

Consideration of the bill was concluded and it was reported to the house. The previous question was ordered on passage of the bill, but no further action was taken

Reed presented a protest against admission of Dakota as a state signed by numerous bondholders of Yankton county, Dakota. Referred

House adjourned

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organizations broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.
